

Foreign Exchange Market (October 2012)

Graph 1. Net inflow (outflow) of non-cash USD in commercial banks (mln.USD)

Graph 2. Dynamics of USD exchange and operations volume in the interbank currency auctions

As of the end of October the USD exchange rate remained unchanged, slightly decreased compared to the end of the previous month from KGS 47.1484 to 47.1354 per USD (in the same period of 2011, the rate increased by 1.3 percent). Traditional pressure on the rate by the continued demand for the currency from the import –oriented enterprises of the country still partially compensated by the volumes of foreign currency coming to the country in the form of remittances.

In quantitative terms, increase affected all types of operations: the volume of non-cash operations of commercial banks increased by 21.5 percent and constituted KGS 6.2 billion, cash operations of commercial banks increased to KGS 19.6 billion (+11.1 percent), and the increase of cash transactions of exchange offices, established in the amount of KGS 3.8 billion, constituted 8.5 percent.

In the period under review, the interventions of the National Bank for the purpose of smoothing sharp fluctuations of the exchange rate were not carried out.
